

QUEENSLAND

The Queensland Australian Football League was founded in 1903. In order, the leagues have been the Queensland Football League (1904-27), the Queensland Australian National Football League (1927-64), the Queensland Australian Football League (1964-96; 2009-10), the Queensland State Football League (1997-99) and the AFL Queensland State League (2000-08). In late 2010, the QAFL's Premier Division merged with AFL Canberra to form the North East Australian Football League (now merged with the VFL), featuring all its previous teams as well as the Gold Coast's reserves team. The lower division clubs continue to play as a local competition.
